

Your hard-of-hearing aunt is waiting for your phone call.

Your deaf friends are just a phone call away.

7-1-1 is the fast, easy connection to Wyoming Relay—the free service that makes it possible for anyone to communicate on the phone with people who are deaf, hard-of-hearing or speech impaired. A highly trained Communication Assistant acts as an invisible link between you and the person you call—typing what you say to the other party, and voicing what the other party types to you. You enjoy a normal, free-flowing conversation—with no stress or worry. 7-1-1 and Wyoming Relay: Putting you in touch with important people in your life.

She's deaf and calling to buy from you.

So don't hang up.

She's deaf.
And her money talks
loud and clear.
So don't hang up.

When you pick up the phone and hear "This is Wyoming Relay," it's not a telemarketer. It's a customer. Ready to buy from you. Wyoming Relay is the free service that allows deaf, hard-of-hearing and speech impaired Wyoming residents to reach your business by phone. But they can't be your customers if you hang up on them. So when you hear "This is Wyoming Relay," take the call. Chances are you'll be taking an order.
